

Page Motes

Director, Strategic Programs Office
Dell | Global Ethics & Compliance
(P) 512 728 6758

Page Motes brings 15 years of consulting experience, much within the niche legal compliance and ethics industry, to her role as Dell's Director of Strategic Programs within the Global Ethics and Compliance Office. Reporting to the Chief Ethics and Compliance Officer, she and her team are responsible for crafting and executing Dell's proactive strategy around legal compliance and ethics-related training, communications and key processes. Page also represents the Ethics and Compliance department as a core team member on several key cross-functional cultural initiatives.

Just prior to Dell, Page worked as Vice President of Business Development for Gerson Lehrman Group, providing expert network services for strategic consulting engagements. In addition, she spent a number of years in both business development and client management roles within LRN. During that time, she engaged with many global companies around their ethics and compliance programs, including strategic development, solution implementation and program effectiveness.