

Explore 12,000 years of history and culture at Barton Springs. The exhibit combines photos, artifacts, stories and original writing about the human connections with Barton Springs.

The Salamander Springs exhibit allows visitors to explore the biology and ecology of the Barton Springs Salamander (Eurycea sosorum). Barton Springs pool located in Zilker Park is the premier habitat of this endangered amphibian.

The negative impact of invasive species on our native habitats can be devastating. Zebra mussels are no different but present an even greater challenge to our aquatic ecosystems. Visit the Beverly Sheffield Education Center to learn more about this uninvited visitor and meet a few of our native freshwater mussels.
