Photograph to Portrait

David Thornberry

Drawing from photographs can be challenging. This class is designed to explore how to observe the photo, draw from observation and translate what you are seeing into three-dimension. The following topics are included: measurement, proportion, outlining and shading. Materials used in class: charcoal, pencil & conte crayon.

SUPPLIES

- Students must bring provide their own supplies.
- No spray fixatives or other aerosol chemicals are allowed in the building.
- Other supplies may be added as the course progresses, as suggested by the instructor.
- Please keep your receipts in case the class is cancelled or to return unused supplies.

Please bring first day of class

- VINE or WILLOW charcoal
- 16x 20 or 18 x24 STRATHMORE Drawing pad
- DERWENT compressed charcoal
- 2 - Design Ebony pencils
- MARS white plastic erasers
- One Photograph: a photograph of someone, or yourself, that you want to draw a portrait of. Photo should be a bust, head, neck and some shoulders, the closer the better. Also, a photo with directional light, in which the direction the light is coming from and is throwing shadows, is best. Taking the photo intentionally to draw from is the most effective method. The photo may be printed out or digitally on screen (phone, laptop, etc.).

Dear DAC Customer:

This letter is to serve as official notification from the City of Austin, as per TCEQ requirements, to parents and other customers of the Dougherty Arts Center (DAC) about the presence of an old landfill under and adjacent to the DAC. There has been no change in the conditions of the Dougherty Arts Center building or the landfill; we are simply providing information so that you can make informed decisions.

The landfill lies under the majority of the building and extends under the lawn to the east of the building. The landfill has been thoroughly investigated for the safety of everyone involved. The City's Investigation and Evaluation Team included staff from the Health and Human Services Department, Watershed Protection and Development Review Department as well as outside environmental experts. The investigation has not identified an exposure risk to users of the DAC but we want parents and other customers to be aware of the situation and to know that the assessment is ongoing.

The City discovered this previously unknown landfill during the initial construction of Butler Park in April of 2006 and took immediate action by cordoning off the contaminated area and starting its investigation. Health risks from old landfills such as this would primarily be from direct contact with the buried materials or from landfill gases such as methane or carbon monoxide.

The results of the investigation indicated:

The landfill materials appear to be over 75 years old and relatively benign. The only identifiable materials are glass bottles, ceramic pieces and pieces of metal.

The materials are covered by a layer of soil that ranges from 8 inches to 6 feet in depth.

No methane gas nor carbon monoxide have been found in seven years of monitoring.

Based on initial testing, the primary contaminant of concern is the elevated lead levels within the buried materials. These elevated lead levels have not been identified in the surface soil where they would pose a health risk. We have contained the contaminated areas.

Per EPA and TCEQ directives, the City of Austin will continue to monitor the situation with the use of methane, natural gas, and carbon monoxide detectors both in the building and at bore holes drilled through the foundation to check gas levels below the building. The playground area and the gas monitors are checked by daily inspections and by quarterly visits from the Parks and Recreation Safety Officer who has also contributed to the safety measures taken.

We will remain vigilant in our efforts to manage this issue. We believe that the DAC and its surrounding parkland are safe but we want to be sure all interested parties are aware of the situation. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to call:
