Anonymous 6/08/2019 04:04 PM	Early morning fishing
COA Parks & Rec 6/10/2019 10:30 AM	Not having a boat ramp in Webberville, going into summer.
COA Parks & Rec 6/10/2019 11:08 AM	Fall - spring
COA Parks & Rec 6/10/2019 11:12 AM	Mountain biking during sunrise. Sun reflecting off of trees.
Anonymous 6/13/2019 04:27 PM	I like to go every season to see the different foliage of each season. I especially like to go to Earth Day events.
Anonymous 6/13/2019 10:18 PM	Cool crisp day with leafless trees revealing expanse of the environment
Anonymous 6/14/2019 07:58 PM	Fall or winter are the best
Anonymous 6/18/2019 01:20 PM	I love walking around Barkley Meadows in the summer because there are so many snakes, and as long as you keep your distance and stay respectful, it's an awesome way to check out the snake diversity.
Anonymous 6/18/2019 01:41 PM	At Commons Ford, on a very cold November day, crisp blue skies, lovely grasses and native plants in every shade of brown and red, and suddenly up pops a tiny LeConte's Sparrow, one of our wintering birds, with its gorgeous pinkish/salmonish wash over its breast and flanks, and its striking face. It was the first time I'd ever seen one and it was breath-taking!
Anonymous 6/18/2019 01:56 PM	I love the Roy Guerrero in the winter with all the wintering ducks and waders, But this past winter, water birds were absent because of the high water level. Instead, all the trees along the banks were strewn with plastic bag remnants from the flooding.
Anonymous 6/18/2019 02:08 PM	having my birthday parties/bike riding when I was young now as an adult walking with my pets or music/water recreation
Anonymous 6/18/2019 02:27 PM	I really enjoy how pretty Mueller is during the spring in the early afternoon before it gets too hot. Zilker Park is also beautiful pretty much year around. I like how active both parks are, full of people, sports, pets. They are great uses of parkland in Austin.
Anonymous 6/18/2019 03:09 PM	At Walnut Creek, hiking the trails and up the creek. Seeing plants and trees, snakes and spiders. Just loving the way you could completely forget that you were still in the city.
Anonymous 6/18/2019 03:50 PM	I grew up in Michigan where the outdoors was very different! My memories are Michigan parks, so they don't really count.

The parks along the river below Longhorn Dam are spectacular all year long. Austin is blessed to have an essentially wild and natural river flowing through it. Even effort should be made to maintain the natural character of the river and riverfront woods as development moves east.

Several years ago at ACL, C3 or whomever had been cultivating the grass and the first day of ACL it was a cool 92 degrees, sun was shining and the grass was literally the greenest grass I've ever seem-- it was then completely destroyed the following day due to massive rains and the insane concert goers slid around face first and bare foot in the "dillo dirt."

Anonymous 6/25/2019 05:06 PM	Since the late 70's, I remember going to the Zilker Hillside Theatre, spreading a blanket on the grass and having an evening picnic with my family. Every year since, I've looked forward to this tradition and have passed it on to my own children. I also loved going to the Richard Moya Park as a child (mostly to pick pecans). I remember my dad driving over the "old creepy bridge".

Anonymous 6/15/2019 09:05 PM	I definitely would like to see amenities that service multiple generations in a common area, i.e. a place for parents to sit while their kids play on a play structure or dig in the sand, etc. I would really like things for kids to do that are fun and educational, for example the sand pits that have fake dinosaur bones in them or trails like the ones at Lady Bird Johnson where they have animal statues and educational material tied to the statues, etc. Any opportunities for people to work together to create, build, breakdown, and recreate structures would be great. I've visited some parks where people can build miniature log cabins, teepees, and other activities collaboratively and they've been amazing. I'd like to see a space similar to the MLK Fountain in Yerba Buena Gardens in San Francisco ( https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Yerba_Buena_Gardens ) where John Trevino and other Austin Leaders and History could be shared. What would be even better is if this fountain display could be modular so it could be constantly updated with new and interesting topics. I'd like to make sure there are spaces for community-based performances of art, dance, theater, music, etc. boat launch and fishing access areas; kayaking/stand up paddle board area, and a place to host community events shade ,tables , drinkable water, playscapes

- off leash trails similar to Red Bud Isle or Walnut Creek Metropolitan Park - off leash open areas, similar to Zilker Park's wide open spaces filled with behaved dogs and their owners all co-existing together - plenty of nature/grass - I know it's hard to keep areas green in the Texas heat, but a park with less dirt/dust (maybe just better maintained) - in the future, maybe events like Zilker/Republic Square movies in the park, farmer's markets Dog friendly with poop bag stations and water access for dogs. Calm spaces to sit and enjoy nature, lots of trees, and covered spaces. Open field. Walking paths.

Seems to have great potential for education and experience of natural phenomena.

Cooking facilities, access to water for fishing and kayaking

Hiking trails down to the Colorado, a good playscape with some shade sails over it, toilets at the trailhead and tail end, some wheelchair accessible trails, native plants featured in the garden areas, maybe a native food forest, a splash pad, a gate or two over to the schools next door, plant and tree identification placards, probably more.

Little League Teams and a Pool

Nature Trails, Kayaking, mountain biking

Hike and Bike Trails Picnic Tables Information that puts the Morrison Ranch AND John Trevino, Jr. in historical context Information on plants and trees on the property

Walking trails with intermittent rest areas. Water feature. Play lawn and equipment for children.

Adult exercise equipment. Disabled access.

Fishing ponds or piers.

Scenic hikes, places for trash so cleanliness is adhered to, water, bathroom area

Preservation of natural spaces and riverfront, restoration where reasonable, possible canoe and kayak access.

Trails, canoe rentals, amphitheater for music, native plants! Connection to Walnut Creek trail.

Anonymous 6/19/2019 10:08 AM	Hiking trails connected with Austin greenbelt to the west to provide access to Walnut Creek. Primitive launch river access on east side with parking at the gate above the river (about 300 feet from the Colorado); keep the "cactus garden" southwest of the gate. Meadow hiking trails on the middle tier. Restrict developed athletic fields and facilities to the upper tier. Avoid trails in the lower tier river bottom because of high maintenance cost.

I'm excited about a beautiful park being nearby soon. I really appreciate the city and parks organization taking the community into account in their plans. There are many great parks all over Austin, but it seems like there are few on the east side of town. As Austin continues to grow, more people are moving east of I-35 and there should be amenities for them (me) on our side of town too. Opening a great park where dog owners, families, young, old, can all gather will also reduce the stress of the other great parks by distributing attendance throughout the city.

The Texas River school has Colorado river access immediately adjacent to the park, but the road to get there is very rough and not friendly at all. This is a very interesting stretch of river for kayaking/fishing and it would be great to get better access to it. At the same time, I'm concerned about the track record of current far-east Austin parks. I'm specifically talking about Walter E. Long. Go there on any summer weekend and there is garbage everywhere and no rule enforcement. Kids use the boat ramps for swimming. Jet skis ignore the no wake zones. I'm concerned about the plan for opening a space this large and keeping it safe and clean.

Please build something the city and residents of the east side can be proud to call their own. East residents deserve a park as thoughtfully constructed and built as the rest of the "crown jewel" parks in the city. Please also include off leash dog areas that aren't a complete joke in size. The acreage of this site can afford several off leash dog areas (big and small fenced parks, trails, open space). Throw in some beach water access, bonus!

Anonymous
6/18/2019 02:33 PM
Unless the road configuration changes radically in the next few years, the park seems to have limited accessibility for cars, and thus limited potential for special events. Also, crowds would seem to require excessive impervious cover (for parking and amenities) in a beautiful environment.

Please consider developing a beautiful oasis in a part of Austin with very few resources of this nature. There are plenty of industrial sites(gravel pits included) and composting facilities(aromatic atmosphere). There are plenty of waste water treatment plants, low income housing and the Community First and proposed Salvation Army Rathgeber Center. What you don't have in this area of town are people that will advocate for this park. There are many who will find solace and enjoyment in a park such as this. Consider the ones who MAY be silent.

Please please take into account the infrastructure in the area - few routes of egress for residents east of the park (Hornsby Bend, Austin's Colony, etc.), heavy traffic and insufficient lanes frequently traveled by gravel trucks, ongoing residential construction, and a complete lack of public transportation or safe bicycle lanes. Protected bike lanes along 969 would help A LOT. Any chance of a library open to residents just east of Austin city limits within Travis County? Currently we have none.

Please consider obtaining some of the adjacent flood prone properties. The lower south Imperial Valley neighborhood which is adjacent to the proposed park has little developmental value as the lots have no utilities, limited access, and are 10-20' below the FEMA 100 year floodplain elevation. These empty lots attract encampments of people in makeshift shelters that are a health hazard due to the lack of water and sanitation as well as a crime attractant. The high risk of flooding in addition to the limited access also makes the area a danger to the people encamped there. Travis County Sheriff deputies and environmental officers have a long history of responding to issues there, but because of minimal cooperation from the landowners they have had little success in resolving the inherent issues. This would not make for a good neighbor to a newly established park and would likely depress attendance as well as leave visitors concerned for their safety.

Please keep up with safety. The park nearby, we've had rape and murder happen within a years span. It makes me very wary to go

I love Walnut Creek and nature centers. I'd love to see a combo of those two - an educational space where field trips can happen and a lot of great hiking trails with different levels of accessibility. A safe/clean water feature would make the park more attractive year-round. Hike, then cool off in the pool or splash pad.

Parks are the best use of tax dollars! Keep up the good work of making Austin's park system one of the best in the world.

Interested to hear what the ideas are. I had wanted to go to the meeting a few Saturdays ago but had to work.

This park is for families to enjoy and recreate, and should not be used as a place to hold major events, nor entry and concessions that will prohibit use from those unable to pay. Also, the department needs to strongly consider using minority owned businesses, should they proceed with concessions.

I would love to see the roadway slower so that it's safe to drive on that section of FM969. Otherwise people will have more car accidents trying to access the park. We also want a crosswalk or pedestrian bridge.

Importance of SAFETY: 1. Entering and exiting grounds safely from highway. 2. Safe practices: Be aware of other people enjoying the park (keep pets on leash, hurled balls can injure visitors, broken bottles can cause permanent damage). 3. First Aid Station at mid-point in the park (choking, fainting, safe plants). 4.

Please get Austin some decent parks that have parking and don't cost a small fortune to get into.

Preserve habitat where possible for native species. Plant only native trees for landscaping, choose waterwise native shrubs and wildflowers , include areas for nesting birds, lizards, etc.

The east side needs an off leash area for dogs that is safe!

Incorporate a solid phasing plan for amenities and bring in maintenance and operations for planning and layout to ensure sustainable operation.

We live very close to the park. There are not many safe places for children to play in the area. We go to the Walter e long lake park regularly, and we love it and feel safe there. We would really love a playscape to be incorporated into the plan for the park. Our family also loves nature trails!

Please be mindful of creating either a fenced in off leash area or an off leash area for dogs. Look into possible concessions since it is a bit of a drive, as well as utilize natural-ish parking (like gravel lots vs. concrete) if at all possible.

I know Austin, in general, is very pet friendly but please do not have a designated off leash dog area at this new location.

Please consider the traffic and general lack of safety on 969 when planning for large events at this park.

6/25/2019 05:12 PM

Since it is a park named after the first Mexican American councilman, it'd be nice to add some Mexican elements when designing the park.
