- Optional: Place hole protectors or a piece of adhesive tape over each hole that will hold the string that secures the mask to the face. This should prevent tearing. In the case of tape, it is best to place one bit of tape on both sides of the paper.
- Punch holes in the two sides with a hole punch
OR
- Crease the mask over the circles on the sides showing the holes and cut out the circles (parents should do this step!)
- Cut a length of string (or yarn/twine/ribbon), roughly 25" long
- Thread one end of the string through each side of the mask and tie with a double knot
- Cut the center point of the string so that there are now two strings that can be tied together
- Cut off any excess string
- Put the mask on and tie the mask at the back. Children with long hair should be careful to not tie their hair in the knot.

Discussion Questions:

- Why did you choose the mask design you did?
- Can you describe to me how you decorated your mask?
- What do you like about the colors you chose?

Vocabulary:

Lucha Libre: In Mexico, this just means "wrestling" (literally "free fight" like "freestyle wrestling), and more specifically, professional wrestling. Outside Mexico, it is used to describe the Mexican style of professional wrestling.

Luchador: "Wrestler" in Spanish
